

The World Environment Day (WED) is celebrated on the 5th of June every year; this was first held in 1974 and is the United Nations (UN) principal vehicle for encouraging awareness as well as action for the protection of our environment.

This day is a global flagship campaign for raising awareness on critical emerging environmental issues and to stimulate responsive actions aimed at addressing them collectively as well as at individual level, for this reason, each year is celebrated in line with a theme that targets the most critical issues at hand.

The theme for this year 2018 is #Beatplasticpollution – if you can't reuse it, refuse it
